

Culture

The funny thing is that we are all here to show each other about our culture. Our cultures say who we are and who our ancestors were. A big thing about our cultures is that some cultures have holidays about important people in our culture's history. For example, people who founded our countries, states or continents. We all have special foods from our cultures like meats, fruits, and vegetables that we eat during festivals, birthdays or just every day. Besides food, we have clothing. We all have many
